

Wyoming Seminary wrestlers heading to Cuba to compete in Junior Pan American Games

May 2 - The Wyoming Seminary wrestling team, the Blue Knights, are coming to Havana this weekend to participate in the Junior Pan American Games, the Times Leader reports.

The Blue Knights has long been noted by many publications as a top team in the country.

The team has racked up nine Pennsylvania State Prep championships, eight National Prep Tournament runner-ups, and one national title.

The quartet will be in Cuba for just about a week arriving on Sunday and returning on Saturday, May 9. Once they arrive, they will start the process of getting situated before wrestling athletes from all over the world starting on Tuesday competing in freestyle and Greco-Roman programs.
