

Cuba and Spain Sign Academic Projects

Huelva, June 11 (RHC)-- Cuba and Spain will sign cooperation projects in the area of universities in order to strengthen the ties of academic collaboration between the two countries.

During the Twelfth Bilateral Meeting of Rectors of Higher Education, held in Spain, participants exchanged their experiences in the field of education.

José Ramón Sabol, Cuba's Deputy Minister of Higher Education, told reporters in the Spanish Andalusian town of Huelva that Cuba and Spain are working in the areas of graduate and academic mobility, especially in the recognition of credits and degrees as well as educational exchange programs.

The Cuban deputy minister also pointed to cooperation in academic mobility between teachers and students, which he described as very important, as well as mutually beneficial cooperation.
