

U.S. Group Demands End of Restrictions on Travel and Trade with Cuba

Washington, July 2 (RHC) --- James Williams, president of the U.S. coalition 'Engage Cuba,' has urged the U.S. Congress to work hard for American companies to travel and trade freely with Cuba.

In a statement, the U.S. business leader said he welcomed the important step of restoring bilateral relations. Williams stressed the need for citizens of his country to decide where to travel – they are prohibited to do so because of the blockade – and for U.S. companies to be able to compete with the rest of the world in the Cuban market.

James Williams with 'Engage Cuba' says he is traveling to Havana today and will visit the future U.S. embassy, "to celebrate this historic moment."
