

Japanese travel companies increase tourist offers to Cuba

Tokyo, Aug 21 (RHC-EFE).- Japanese travel agencies are increasing travel offers to Cuba following an increase in demand.

From October, travel company JTB will increase tour packages from five to eight, following a five-fold increase in bookings to Cuba, economic daily Nikkei reported Friday.

Travelers have shown special interest in Old Havana, designated a World Heritage site in 1982.

The developments come as relations between U.S. and Cuba were recently re-established, and many tourists in Japan and other countries think an influx of American visitors and funds will reshape the Cuban tourism offer.

Other companies are taking similar initiatives with growing interest in the Caribbean island, including Hankyu Travel, Tokyo-based KNT and Nippon Travel Agency.
