

Women Tea Plantation Workers in India Win Bonuses After 9-Day Strike

New Delhi, September 16 (RHC)-- In Kerala, India, thousands of women tea plantation workers have ended an unprecedented nine-day strike after their managers agreed to their demands to increase bonuses.

The women blockaded roads in the hill town of Munnar. The strike was unusual because of the women's decision to reject the involvement of male-dominated trade unions and almost all politicians.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/69268-women-tea-plantation-workers-in-india-win-bonuses-after-9-day-strike>

Radio Habana Cuba