

Teenager Dies of Ebola in Liberia, Marking First Fatality in Months

Monrovia, November 25 (RHC)-- In Liberia, a 15-year-old boy has died of Ebola, months after the country was declared Ebola free.

The news comes after a panel of global health experts condemned the World Health Organization for its sluggish response to the Ebola outbreak last year, saying "thousands" of deaths could have been prevented if not for the agency's failures and delays.
