

U.S. Supreme Court Halts Obama's Coal Plant Rules in Blow to Paris Accord

Washington, February 15 (RHC)-- In a blow to the Barack Obama administration's efforts to combat climate change, the U.S. Supreme Court has temporarily blocked regulations to limit emissions from coal-fired power plants. The stay comes as an appeals court considers a challenge to the rules brought by corporations and 29 states.

The U.S. Supreme Court's decision to halt the rules is reportedly unprecedented -- the court has never before agreed to block a regulation before it's been reviewed by a federal appeals court.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/ciencias/84210-us-supreme-court-halts-obamas-coal-plant-rules-in-blow-to-paris-accord>

Radio Habana Cuba