54 Killed in "Unprecedented" Attack in Tunisia Near Libyan Border

Tunis, March 8 (RHC)-- In Tunisia, more than 50 people have been killed in a terrorist attack, sparking fears the violence engulfing neighboring Libya is now spreading across the border.

Dozens of attackers descended on a Tunisian town, attacking police and military stations. Tunisian President Beji Caid Essebsi called the attack "unprecedented" and blamed it on ISIL.

Officials in Tunisia said at least 54 people were killed, including militants, security forces and civilians.
